

Greening the City:

Fostering Inspired and Innovative Leadership for Just and Sustainable Urban Communities

November 6-8, 2009

A conference sponsored by Lesley University and Mass Audubon

We're currently accepting proposals for 90-minute workshops that address one or more of the following:

Ecology:

Preserving natural habitats, producing food and managing waste

Infrastructure:

Transportation, green building, public green space and renewable energy

Consumption:

Altering consumption behaviors and promoting equitable economic activities

Governance:

Participatory models for making/enforcing decisions and resolving conflict

Communities:

Building vibrant communities with shared values, practices and behaviors

Conference Information

On November 6-8, 2009, join more than 150 urban environmental leaders from throughout New England at Lesley University in Cambridge, MA to explore key strategies for fostering inspired and innovative urban environmental leadership. To read more about the conference, visit lesley.edu/info/greeningthecity.

"Greening the City" is geared toward environmental practitioners and thinkers from nonprofits, higher education, local community groups, government agencies, and businesses.

Guidelines for submitting workshop proposals can be found on the Conference website.

Deadline

The deadline for submitting a workshop proposal has been extended! All proposals should be submitted by email as a Microsoft Word or PDF file to Lily Fessenden at lfessend@lesley.edu. A panel of representatives from Lesley University and Mass Audubon will review all proposals.