

GENERAL EDUCATION PROGRAM

Lesley's new outcome-based general education program will help you develop skills and perspectives to succeed in an increasingly complex global context and to create a more just, humane, and sustainable world. Courses taken for the program may also count for your major or minor.

APPLICATIONS

Apply and reflect on your learning through an exciting transdisciplinary, project-based course on a critical social issue.

PERSPECTIVES

ETHICAL REASONING, SOCIAL ACTION & CIVIC ENGAGEMENT

Apply ethical frameworks to engage in social and civic action.

EXAMINING POWER & INEQUITY

Critically explore societal, political, and cultural systems to challenge power, privilege, and oppression.

LOCAL & GLOBAL CONNECTIONS

Examine self and community within the globalized world through explorations of political, cultural, and linguistic diversity.

CREATE, PERFORM, DESIGN

Create and critique original work to express, inquire or inspire.

HUMAN RELATIONSHIPS TO THE NATURAL & PHYSICAL WORLD

Examine the complex and interdependent relationship between humans, our societies, and the Earth.

FOUNDATIONS

COLLABORATION

Develop teamwork and leadership skills to engage in diverse partnerships.

COMMUNICATION

Produce effective written, spoken, and visual texts and media.

ANALYSIS

Critically analyze, interpret, and evaluate written, oral, and visual texts.

QUANTITATIVE REASONING

Create and examine arguments using quantitative information from many sources.

BREADTH OF INQUIRY: LIBERAL ARTS TRADITIONS

Explore the ways in which people ask questions, engage in research, and critically evaluate information across a variety of liberal arts areas.